

The author's rights on texts and/or other material published on this site, together with Sviluppo Basilicata mark, are the exclusive property of Sviluppo t Basilicata SpA (hereinafter the company) and/or the respective authors. Reproduction, even partial, is prohibited, with any analogue or digital mean without written authorisation. Partial quotations are permitted for reporting, review or in scientific publications, provided that accompanied by the name of the author and indication of the source sviluppo.basilicata.it followed by URL.

The company assumes no responsibility for any errors or omissions on this web site or any faults or inaccuracies in the services offered, and reserves the right to make any change of the material published or services offered without prior notice.

The company is not in any way responsible for the contents and services in web sites to which you may access through this site. When you access to another website, remember that it is independent from the site managed by the company, and that the latter has no control over the site in question.

Furthermore, the existence of a hypertext link to another site does not involve the approval or acceptance of responsibility by the society about the content or the use of this site. It is personal responsibility to take all necessary precautions to make sure that anything is decided to pick and use is free of elements of a destructive nature which viruses, worms, "Trojan Horses" etc.

The company is not in any way responsible for any damage, both total or partial, related to the use of this web site or any other linked sites, including, with no limitations, damages like the loss of profits or activities, the loss of programmes or data located on your operative system.